

2020 FOREIGN SOURCE INCOME AND FOREIGN TAX PAID INFORMATION

This information is being provided to assist in your 2020 tax preparations.

Mutual funds investing in foreign securities have foreign source income, and may incur foreign taxes on that income, which could have tax implications for fund shareholders. The tax credit for foreign taxes paid (the foreign tax credit), or alternatively, the tax deduction for foreign tax paid (the foreign tax deduction) is intended to mitigate the impact of double taxation for U.S. tax-payers when their foreign source income may be taxed by both the U.S. and the country from which the income is derived. If a fund meets certain criteria, it has the option to pass the foreign tax credit through to shareholders.

In computing U.S. income tax liability, individual shareholders may be entitled to either a foreign tax credit (on Schedule, 3 Part 1, IRS Form 1040) or an itemized deduction (on IRS Schedule A, Form 1040) for the amount (if any) of the foreign tax paid by the fund and passed through to shareholders, as reported in Box 7 of your Dividends and Distributions Form (Form 1099-DIV). Generally, it will be more advantageous to claim this amount as a credit. However, we suggest that you consult your tax advisor to determine the best course of action. Refer your tax advisor to the attached tables.

Note that you may not take a foreign tax credit for shares of a fund that you have held for less than 16 days during the 31-day period beginning 15 days prior to the relevant ex-dividend date. Please consult your tax advisor regarding your eligibility to claim the credit.

Tax credit

If you decide to claim a foreign tax credit, there may be a limitation on the amount of credit you can claim. You may be required to calculate this limitation and your foreign tax credit on your IRS Form 1116 - Foreign Tax Credit (for Individual, Estate, or Trust). Generally, you will not be subject to this limitation and will be able to claim the foreign tax credit without completing Form 1116, if the following requirements are met:

- All your foreign source gross income was from passive category income, which generally includes dividends and interest.
- Your total creditable foreign taxes for the year are not more than $300 ($600 if married and filing a joint return).
- All your foreign source income and any foreign taxes paid on it are reported to you on a qualified payee statement, which includes Form 1099-DIV or similar tax statements.
- You elect not to file Form 1116 by claiming the credit directly on the foreign tax credit line of your tax return (Schedule 3, IRS Form 1040).

Please consult your tax advisor. Note that you will still need to report all your income, including your foreign source income from your fund(s). You may be liable for federal or state income tax plus any alternative minimum tax (AMT) under the tax rules, beyond what was paid to the foreign government(s).

Also note that some states do not allow foreign tax credits to offset your state income tax. Please consult with your tax advisor or state tax authority regarding your ability to claim this credit.

Limitation on foreign tax credit

If you are not able to elect the exemption from the foreign tax credit limitation noted above, you will be required to calculate the limit on the amount of credit you can claim by completing Form 1116. The limitation is based upon the total income received from foreign sources (foreign source income) and total foreign taxes paid. It also considers the different categories of foreign source income earned.

Some of the information needed to complete Form 1116 is provided below. Detailed information for each fund is provided in the accompanying table to compute the limitation. Please see Form 1116 instructions for more information on the calculation of limitations. The IRS has issued regulations relating to foreign qualified dividends and the tax rate differential rules for certain taxpayers. Please consult your tax advisor.

- To compute foreign source income, multiply the Foreign Source Income percentage by the Total ordinary dividends amount shown in Box 1a of your Form 1099-DIV.
- To compute foreign source qualified dividends, multiply the Foreign Source Qualified Dividend percentage by the Total ordinary dividends amount shown in Box 1a of your Form 1099-DIV.
- Foreign taxes paid are reported to you in Box 7 of your Form 1099-DIV, if the fund passed-through a foreign tax credit.
